> As a concerned citizen, I was alarmed to hear of the possible closure of the Barrett centre as there is no other residential care option for adolescent mental health patients beyond acute facilities which are largely inappropriate for a significant number of these patients. So to terminate the health and education services currently offered by the Barrett facility will clearly leave a fatal gap in our state's healthcare provision.

> I understand the need to look at the current economic situation as well as wider recommendations regarding the treatment of adolescent mental health but I'm very much hoping that the expertise within West Moreton Health would also ensure that there is representation on the reference group from professionals who have had direct experience with the Barrett centre itself. A decision cannot be made without input from those with a firsthand understanding of the unique care that is available at the centre and that cannot be provided by a group of professionals - no matter how well educated and renowned in their field they might be - if they have had no experience of the unique treatment options available at the Barrett facility. I would also expect that there are or will be opportunities for other interested parties, other than those with specific qualifications in adolescent mental health to provide informed input to assist the panel in their deliberations so I'm hoping that you can also get back to me to explain how this aspect of the review will proceed. Clearly, past and current patients and their family members as well as staff at the hospital and school operating in a range of roles all have invaluable contributions to offer with their own anecdotal evidence of the unique experience provided to patients at the Barrett Centre. Again, as such a facility does not exist elsewhere in Queensland, these are the only people who can provide tangible results from the services offered - so to omit such a resource could be seen to be verging on negligence.

> I don't doubt that the Queensland government does not take this issue lightly and am reassured by the review currently being undertaken. However, were it to become clear that such a review was a bureaucratic or political measure when the closure of the centre was inevitable, that would be very concerning. If the review is a genuine process being undertaken with the best possible motives, then I would expect that input from a comprehensive range of experts (including those with direct experience with the Barrett Centre's operations) would be sought. This would enable a truly valid decision to be made on the future of these kinds of services for the young people of Queensland. I should clarify that I am sure that those working at all levels of West Moreton Health are diligent professional people dedicated to making a valuable contribution so I do not doubt their motives and efforts in any way. But unfortunately, I am reticent to place similar confidence in those issuing directives from positions largely defined by the wider ramifications of the political world. I raise this because I am seriously concerned that the lives of young Queenslanders may be lost within political machinations and it is those lives that I care about. Because there are many of them now who are vulnerable and there, unfortunately, will be many more in the future who require the support of a Barrett-like facility to navigate the dramatic challenges thrown their way.

> I'm sure it's clear from the tone of this email that I oppose the closure of the centre. I am someone who has been in the lucky position not to have needed to have contact with the Barrett Centre in the past - which is why I feel so strongly about it. I might not know anyone who has required the facility but I, as I would imagine the majority of Queenslanders would have, have had experience with the devastation that mental illness inflicts on sufferers and their families/loved ones. So to lose a place that provides the vital support that the Barrett Centre does is to leave too many young people to struggle on alone, or as will likely be the case, to take their future into their own hands.

> A facility like the Barrett Centre is an opportunity for our government to create a model for other states to follow, to put forward as a centre of excellence for the world that provides a bridge between acute care and a productive life for those adolescents dealing with the most traumatic issue they'll ever deal with at the most challenging time of their life. So to find out that, instead of seizing this positive opportunity, our government is considering closing the Barrett Centre is beyond troubling.

> I hope you can reassure me that the review panel is one that will consider input from the most comprehensive range of sources possible and that the outcome will be as a result of genuine consideration of all of the information provided. Because, if that is the case, the government cannot fail to ensure a future where the comprehensive range of services and experiences that Barrett currently provides are readily available so that Queenslanders can be proud of, and reassured by, the presence of a facility/facilities that has and will continue to save the lives of so many young people.

Office of the Minister for Health

Ms Alison Earls

17 DEC 2012

Dear Ms Earls

Thank you for your correspondence dated 7 December, 2012 to the Office of the Minister for Health, regarding your concerns with the closure of The Barrett Adolescent Centre at Wacol.

As you may be aware, from 1 July 2012, and under the direction of the new Queensland Government, 17 independent Boards have assumed accountability for the delivery of public hospital and health services that was previously provided by the Health Services Districts.

Each Board has enhanced control over local health service delivery and seeks greater local input from both clinicians and the community.

Accordingly, I have referred your correspondence to the Chair of the West Moreton Hospital and Health Board, Dr Mary Corbett for attention and reply direct.

Yours sincerely
